

Maui Girls Show Scouting Gives Great Results

First Girl Scout Day at Kahului Demonstrates Value of Movement; Year's Results Surprise

Girl Scouts of Maui had their big day at Kahului and the Fair Grounds Saturday. It was their first annual Scout Day and for weeks they had been looking forward to and preparing for it. When the big day came it was all they had hoped for and it was a veritable eye opener to the grown folk who didn't know what the young organization was accomplishing. As they marched through the streets of Kahului with Miss Seibert at their head and each troop led by its captain and lieutenant, the young girls presented a splendid appearance in their regulation khaki skirt and blouse. Some had made for themselves blazer uniforms and others were in ordinary attire but all were neat, businesslike, bright eyed, alert and happy. Those from distant points were brought to the Fair grounds in autos and auto trucks and they came singing and cheering.

Starts on Time
There was little delay in getting the troops in line after their arrival in the grounds. Miss Seibert was in command and the captains and lieutenants had her orders carried out to the blast of the whistle.

Heading the parade were a number of automobiles. Mrs. F. F. Baldwin, president of the council in the lead and other members of the council in their cars. Then came Miss Seibert and the scouts troop by troop with a girl drummer at the front of the leading troop. Out from the Fair grounds the line of march proceeded, through Puunene avenue, turning in to Main street past the bank to the Paia road and then countermarching to the fair grounds. Troop after troop passed along the streets each line in step and each girl cultivating her finest military manner. There were some small and some that were in the morning of womanhood, and each and every one was doing her best for her troop and for Girl Scouts of Maui.

Lahaina Troop Best

The Girl Scouts Council had offered a prize of $5 in gold to the troop making the best appearance in the parade. Posture, neatness, and marching ability were the requisites and Mrs. C. S. Childs, W. H. "Pop" Hutton, the Boy Scouts, commissioner and J. H. Gray were the judges. They found their task no easy one, so they did all troops conduct themselves and especially was such the case with three of the troops. The judges felt there should have been a second prize offered and so they gave one, $3 to the second best appearing and marching troop.

First prize went to the Star of Bethlehem troop of Lahaina. The girls were clad in khaki uniform and through their own endeavor had earned the money for the goods required and had made their suits. Three times the judges watched them pass and each time there was not a girl out of step, with each one it was eyes front. They were well drilled and they showed capacity in carrying out what they had been taught. The work of Miss Helen VanKeuren, the captain and of Miss Seong, the lieutenant was clearly reflected in the results.

Seminary Shows Finely

Not far behind the Star of Bethlehem girls in carriage and marching ability were the Pakalana troop girls of Maunaloa Seminary, Captained by Miss Vincent. The girls have not yet secured the khaki uniforms but had equipped themselves in uniforms of black bloomers and white shirt waists and black stockings and their appearance was neat and trim. They lost to Star of Bethlehem because two girls were out of step on one of the three times they passed the judges and their bearing was not quite so good. However, they had much to be proud of and great credit belongs to them else the judges would not have arranged for the second prize.

There was very little to choose between the second prize winner and its sister troop from Maunaloa Seminary, the Cup of Gold girls. The latter seemed a little younger than the Pakalanas. They also had equipped themselves with uniforms of black stockings, black bloomers and white shirt waists, the only difference in uniform from the sister seminary troop being in colors of neckerchiefs. They fell behind the second troop in marching to a not very appreciable extent but were practically equal in neatness of appearance.

Day of Fun Follows

Returning to the Fair Grounds opening exercise around the flag pole were held, prizes were presented by J. H. Gray and Mrs. F. F. Baldwin on behalf of the council and for herself complimented the girls on their splendid showing. Then the entire regiment was photographed and the girls scattered for a time. The full story of the day, the great day, the Girl Scouts will tell for themselves in their Girl Scout column of the Friday issue of Maui News.

With the Alert Boy Scouts of Maui

This week has been a lively one for the B.S.—he has visited pretty nearly every troop on this side of the mountain and all are in splendid condition. In one or two cases there has been a slight slump in the attendance, and this also means a falling down in the test passing.

Wake up Scoutmasters. You have an important task on your hands and will be expected to live up to your scout oath and law as well as the members of your troop. How about it fellows.

Broncho Buster—Troop 6 Makawao

"On Tuesday night the meeting was called to order by Scoutmaster Langa. We opened up with the scout oath and law. Two visitors were present Mr. Murphy and Mr. Davis. After having some fun in which the visitors joined we all took tests.

"Three scouts passed first class cooking, five on stars and one on tenderfoot, and many others. In all seventeen tests were passed.

"Mr. Langa is proud of his scouts and I hope you will be proud too. "Mr. Murphy helped in eating the cooking of the scouts who passed their tests. He was not made sick so I suppose it was all right.

"The Scouts then talked of the show that is going to take place in June. "LOUIS DE COSTA, Scribe."

Troop 5, Lahaina

"On Thursday night the scouts assembled in the National Guard Armory at 7:30 p. m. We were drilling when Pop came with Scoutmasters Langa and Crockett. The latter brought us outside and showed us where the constellation of stars were located, and also taught us how to locate the North star. It was very interesting. Later we went into the armory and had another interesting talk which was about the trees and plants, by Scoutmaster Crockett. In making his talk clear he had with him many leaves from different kinds of trees. He described each leaf as to shape, roughness and color.

"After this, Scoutmaster Langa passed some scouts in their signalling test.

"The scouts were dismissed at 9:30 p. m.

"SABURO TONAI, Scribe."

On April 6th the troop held an election of leaders and the following were elected. Seichi Takatsuka, treasurer; Masato Manriki, troop leader, and Saburo Tonai, scribe.

Troop 2, Puunene

"The meeting was called to order on April 26 in the Puunene Armory at the usual hour. Thirteen scouts present and four absent.

"It opened in the usual way by repeating the scout oath and law. There was a discussion in regard to the payment of dues, we then had marching practice for about half an hour. There was a little difficulty at first with the new members but after a few minutes of practice they learned it well.

"We then chose sides and played 'lost patrol' for about 15 minutes. They enjoyed it very much and did not want to quit as soon as they did. "Meeting adjourned at 9:15 p. m. "TAMOTSU OMOTO, Scribe."

Troop 10, Wailuku

"We met at the assembly hall of the Kindergarten at 7:30 p. m., April 29. The scoutmaster blew his whistle and all the scouts assembled in their seats to be ready to repeat the scout oath and law. At the call of the roll it was found that only three scouts were absent, two of them had been excused. Our Scoutmaster, Mr. Kan read the individual standing of the scouts and it was found that nearly all were close to finishing their second class tests. Next Friday night we will be successful in passing them if Pop will be able to visit us and help us as he always does.

"How many did a good turn daily?" the scoutmaster asked. The answers came forth with all the hands raised. One said, 'I picked up broken glass.' Every one had some answer to his good turn. We then had games, the 'frog game' for this night, and it was very funny, the spectators nearly fell off their seats laughing as if some one was tickling them. We then gave our troop yell and songs.

"We then fell in and formed an X and closed the meeting with the pledge to our flag.

"On our honor we will do our best." "KENZO YASHIDA, Scribe."

No reports from Troops 1, 3, 4, 7, 8, and 9. How's that?

Jottings

They're all at it good and hard. Test passing is the craze. A few months ago it looked as if we were never going to get up near the top, now it looks as if we were going to go over with a rush. This is as it should be, and Maui Council Boy Scouts of America is going to make history. Ten troops registered and three more will soon be in the fold. Many new scouts are joining. What is the reason for this?

Here's the answer. They have become interested because the scouts are passing tests and this is attracting their attention.

When ever you have some time to spare, Johnnie go get a Scout Recruiting is every scout's affair, Johnnie go get a Scout. The more you muster the more there'll be, to join the scout company, and we want them all. So Johnnie go get a Scout, and we want them all, so Johnnie go get a Scout.

The headquarters office has just got ten out a "monthly report blank." Copies of this will be sent to each scoutmaster and they will be expected to send them in every month. This is the only way we can keep tab on the real advancement work carried on in each troop. You may rest assured that the executive will send a pretty warm "follow up" if this rule is not carried out to the letter.
